FALL OPENING PROGRAM PLANNED FOR WEDNESDAY

Interesting Program of Music and Entertainment Will Be Provided by Redwood City Merchants At Annual Fall Opening Event Wednesday Evening

A celebration for the opening of Minnie and George streets is being planned by the Redwood City Retailers to follow their fall opening which will be held on Wednesday. The celebration is in recognition of the development and progress which will result to the business section of Redwood City by the opening of these two streets.

The idea of holding a celebration for this development was evolved at a meeting of the directors of The Retailers held at the chamber of commerce rooms Tuesday evening. After considerable discussion of plans for such a celebration the project was officially added to the list of future events of the organization upon a motion made by Gordon Seeley and seconded by Mrs. S. Reinhard.

The Retailers are all prepared for their big event of the year next Wednesday, the annual fall opening. The program is to begin promptly at 7 o'clock in the evening and will be announced by the blowing of all whistles in town. The program will begin with music by the high school orchestra under the direction of Frank Headley, musical instructor at the high school, and will march from the high school to the corner of Broadway and Webster street, where the program is to take place. A platform will be erected, a loud speaker system arranged, lighting provided in the space between the courthouse and the Doxsee building. Arrangements for the program are being made by a committee consisting of Mrs. S. Reinhard, Al Davies, Mrs. James Franklin and George McQueen.

The program for the evening will be as follows:

(1) Selection by the high school orchestra.

(2) James P. Hearne, president of the retailers, will officially welcome the people on behalf of the merchants of Redwood City ,and introduce Al Davies, master of ceremonies.

(3) Introduction of Mayor Daniel R. Stafford.

(4) Remarks by Mayor Stafford.

(5) Selection by Sequoia high school band.

(6) Sidney Harrison, former announcer of station KFWB in Hollywood and popular actor-entertainer will sing "The Road to Mandalay."

(7) Fashion show.

(8) Songs by Viola M. Maysenhalder.

(9) Accordion solo by Secundo Penna.

(10) Fashion show.

(11) Ray Tinney presenting selections on the marimba band and tenor solos.

(12) Fashion show.

(13) Distribution of gifts.

(14) Grand finale by the Sequoia high school band.

Millbrae Road Fight Submitted

Right of County to Road To be Decided By Judge Buck

The question of closing the rail crossing of Millbrae avenue across the Southern Pacific tracks at Millbrae by the railroad company was submitted before Judge George H. Buck yesterday after a hearing of the matter in his court. The crossing was closed last week by the railroad company, who erected heavy gates across the roadway. It was reopened when District Attorney Swart secured a temporary restraining order from the superior court demanding that the road be kept open pending a hearing on the matter in the superior court.

Yesterday the Southern Pacific was represented by H. W. Hobbs and E. J. Fowles; the county was represented by Assistant District Attorney Richard Bell. The railroad based their claim to the crossing on the fact that the earliest record of the roadway having been in public use was in 1910, which under the law would make it public property in 1915 through five years of use. However, the public service act was passed in the meantime and the only power to grant crossings at present is the State Railroad Commission. The matter now hinges on the question of whether or not the railroad commission gained authority over a crossing which had been in public use for some years prior to the act. In the meantime the temporary restraining order has been continued and the crossing is still open.

Local Man Plans 91st Div. Reunion

John Cullen is read of the local committee in charge of the plans for the annual reunion of the Ninety First Division Association of the World War to be held in San Francisco Saturday and Sunday, September 27 and 28.

Saturday there will be a big parade up Market street and in the evening, shows, entertainment and banquet at the Native Sons Hall. Sunday the reception for the ladies will take place at the Whitcomb Hotel Roof Garden.

Tickets for the reunion may be obtained from Mr. Cullen at his home, 203 Phelps street.

Mayor James Rolph., of San Francisco is honorary president of the Ninety-First Association.

Friendly Indians to Hold Meeting Wednesday

The Algonquin Friendly Indians of Washington school met Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. and plans for participation in the Friendly Indian Pow Wow which is to be held in Millbrae on Saturday, October 25th. M. Thornton is the new "Big Chief" for this group of boys.

Roy A. Hohberger, the local Y. M. C. A. secretary, gave a brief talk in which he explained to the boys that this club should act as a service unit for the school. He told of the history of the club whih is now on its sixth year of active club work. This group of boys won the Friendly Indian football championship award last year.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Piano tuning is becoming a lost art, says John Clark, 63-year-old follower of the profession, and it's all the fault of the modern jazz. "People have little need for a piano tuner now," he explains. "They don't care whether a piano is in tune or not. All they want from an instrument is noise."

P. G. & E. Man Wins Three Awards For Best Advertising

J. Charles Jordan, publicity manager of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., was a visitor at the office of the Times-Gazette yesterday. Mr. Jordan had just returned from Pasadena, where he won three first prizes and the sweepstake prize at the convention of the Pacific Coast Gas Association for the best advertising exhibits in which all the gas companies on the Pacific Coast were represented.

The three first prizes won by Mr. Jordan were as follows:

Best institutional newspaper advertising.

Best newspaper merchandise advertising.

Best direct by mail advertising.

The sweepstake prize was a $25 award.

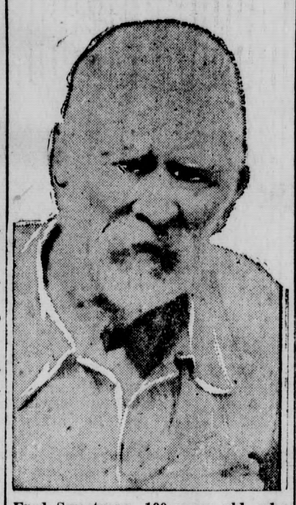
The judges in the contest were the advertising manager of the Los Angeles Illustrated News; the president of the Pasadena Advertising Club and the representatives of the advertising agencies.

Mr. Jordan has been advertising manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for the past nine years, with offices in San Francisco.

Suit Filed For $26.060 Damages

Suit for $26,060 damages was filed in the superior court of this county yesterday by Marguerite Espinose against the University Car Rental and A. P. Rodreguez. The suit is the result of an accident which is said to have occured on the Middleeld Road near Willow Road on August 5, and in which the plaintiff charges that she was knocked down and suffered severe injuries.

BATTLED CUSTER



Fred Sweetman, 100 years old, who has finally "made-up" with the Northern Pacific railroad, after years of controversy over Sweetman's refusal to permit Gen Custer to board his train.

Kiwanians Have Speaking Meet

The Redwood City Kiwanis Club on Wednsday conducted its annual oratorical contest, as a part of the international forum sponsored by the Kiwanis International. Six members of the club spoke Wednesday, having as their subject, the topic, "Kiwanis in Participating Citizenship." Of these six, Carl Wagner, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Italy, was declared to be the winner. The next choice fell to B. E. Myers, city treasurer; and the third choice to A. C. Argo, principal of the Sequoia Union High School . The other speakers were Howard Wood, Rev. C. H. Stevens and Gordon Seeley.

The winner of the local club's contest wil compete with the winners of other clubs of this district at a district meeting to be held in San Mateo on October 14, at which the Redwood City club will act as host. The winner of that contest will compete with other district winners at a division meeting and the winner of that will compete in the International contest.

The chairman of the meeting Wednesday was John Gill, chairman of the club's education committee. All speakers showed that they had given a great deal of thought to the subject and a fine series of talks was the result.

YOMECANS HEAR TALK ON TRAVEL

One of the most interesting talks that has been given before the Yoemecan Club was the travelogue which was given by El Thomas. He told of his adventures in "bumming" it to the South Seas and Europe.

Walter Kellogg, Jr. outlined the program for the "First Birthday" meeting of the club which will be held next Wednesday. The Yomecans are inviting the officers and members of the Kiwanis, Exchange and Lions to be present to enjoy this very special program. The program will consist of a number of very special musical numbers and several short talks. Some of the talent for this event will come from San Francisco.

Three new members, Stanley Netherton, Earl Denison and Billie Hook were welcomed into the club membership by president Ed Greely.

Fruit Growers Ask Lowering of Rates

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17—(UP)—Deciduous fruit growers of Oregon, Washington, California and Idaho appeared before an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing here today in an effort to obtain reduced freight rates.

The hearing, being conducted by Commissioner Clyde R. Atchinson, is the result of a rate reduction fight which began several years ago. In 1927 the commission ordered rates reduced from $1.75 to $1.60 per hundred pounds but last June the supreme court reversed the order, holding it was made through an erroneous interpretation of the Hoch-Smith Act.

The matter was reopened, resulting in the present hearing, largely through the efforts of the California Railroad Commission and California Growers & Shippers League.

Man Attempts To End Life

Stranger Found at Woodside After Suicide Try With Razor

An unidentified man, apparently about 60 years of age and well-dressed, was found lying on top of a small bridge on Portola avenue just off the Canyada Road, yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock with his throat cut and both his wrists slashed. Underneath the bridge were several safety razor blades covered with blood, indicating that the man had attempted to take his life and then regretting his act, had crawled to the top of the bridge for help. When found by Police Officer Clarence Wikoff of Woodside, who had been summoned to the scene, the aged man was in a semi-conscious condition, and his clothing was covered with blood. He talked incoherently when questioned, repeatedly asking where he was. There was nothing in his pockets that would give any clue as to his identity.

Officer Wikoff summoned an ambulance from Laying & Tinney in this city and the would-be-suicide was removed to the Community Hospital at Beresford. While his condition is serious as a result of the great loss of blood, it was thought at the hospital late yesterday afternoon that the man would live.

Club Requested To Participate In Civic Work

International President Sends Message To Kiwanis Club Here

Raymond M. Crossman, of Omaha, president-elect of Kiwanis Intrenational, today asked President Sam Winklebleck of the local club to have all members participate in civic, welfare, and community activities during the next twelve manths.

"Kiwanis has evolved until now mere desires and wishes will not bring anything tangible," Mr. Crossman declared. "Our activities must respond to the needs of society and that is why they have been made so practical. We have a program which deals in human values."

The local club president commenting on the five social objectives of Kiwanis, announced that the Redwood City club had already accomplished work of value to this community.

Kiwanis objectives for 1930-31 for all Kiwanis clubs are concerned with under-privileged child work, citizenship, urban-rural relations, vocational guidance and placement for students, and the promotion of fundamental principles of business standards, according to an announcement following a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the organization in Chicago recently.

"We have for years in Kiwanis been placing special emphasis upon the executive type of men in our membership, "Mr. Crossman told local members. "This gives us a personal consisting of individuals on whom rests responsibility. These men understand the needs and problems of the people and communities in which the 1,876 Kiwanis clubs are located. Last year Kiwanis International completed some 35,000 pieces of welfare and community work in the U. S. and Canada," he said.

Firemen Planning For Annual Dance

Members of the Redwood City fire department are busy right now with plans for their annual dance, which will take place this year on October 25. The dance, as usual, will be held in the Foresters Hall. Music will be furnished by Fred Lamb's 8-piece orchestra.

The arrangements for this event are being made by a committee consisting of C. E. Choate, Edwin Holmquist, A. S. Ligouri, A. W. Russell, George Solari, Harry Bourquin, "Bud" MacKay, Henry Potts, Gene Plecq and Chief Mark Ryan.

The annual dance of the department is the one event of the year at which the fire department of the city asks the public for money, and it is always one of the biggest events of the season.

Ocean Fliers To Visit Here

C. of C. Extends Invitation To Coste and Bellonte

An invitation to use the San Mateo airport and to be guests of honor at a public reception held near Redwood City when they visit San Francisco on September 26, was wired Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French trans-Atlantic fliers, by Howard I. Wood, secretary-manager of the Redwood City chamber of commerce, Tuesday. The visit of the French air heroes to the coast is in connection with their good will tour of the United States.

Captain Coste is a cousin of Mrs. E. C. Reynal of this city, and during his round-the-world flight several years ago, visited Redwood and was entertained by his relatives at a dinner party given in his honor. At that time he declared his intention of making the trans-Atlantic trip and said that when he did he would pay another visit to his cousin. Mrs. Reynald wired Captain Coste her congratulations to her kin when he and Bellonte landed safely in New York after their epochal flight from Paris, and at the same time reminded the cousin of his promise to again visit here.

The telegram sent by Secretary Wood of the local chamber of commerce to Charles Hayden, manager of the good will tour of the two fliers, read as follows:

"We urge use of San Mateo airport in visit of Coste and Bellonti to San Francisco. We understand Coste will visit his cousin, Mrs. E. C. Reynal of Redwood City. If agreeable, we will be pleased to arrange a public reception on the peninsula, while the fliers are here."

Hayden wired back the following reply:

"Thank you for your courteous wire inviting Coste and Bellonti to visit Redwood City, which I have referred to the technical committee in charge of the arrangements."

Gas Explosion Burns Workmen

Three employes of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company were painfully burned about the face, hands and upper part of the body, in a gas explosion while they were repairing a leaking gas main on the Middlefield Road, just south of Redwood City, Wednesday afternoon. The men injured, were Carl Wild, 23, of Menlo Park, and J. O. Manzoni, 35, and Ray Schraeder, 23, both of San Mateo. First aid treatment was given by Dr. H. A. Clattenburg, following which Wild and Manzoni were removed to the Community Hospital at Beresford and Schraeder was taken to his home in Menlo Park. All three men will recover.

Park Discussion Held Last Night

A round table meeting by the committee recently appointed by the chamber of commerce to make a survey of the city for future park and playground needs, of which Councilman Paul McCarthy is chairman, was held last night at the cafeteria of the high school. In addition to the committee there were present members of the city council, directors of the chamber of commerce, service club officers and newspaper representatives.

The chief feature of the meeting was a talk by George W. Bradeen, western representative of the National Recreational Association, and a recognized authority on playground needs and supervised recreation. During the afternoon the speaker had been conducted around the city to view the present park facilities and to outline for the committee a plan for future development.

SATURDAY EVENING DANCES IN FORESTERS HALL

The Saturday evening dances, which have been afforded so much pleasurable entertainment for hundreds of the young people of Redwood City and the Peninsula, will be resumed in the Foresters Hall next Saturday. The hall has been entirely renovated and the floor is in excellent condition. Splendid music has been provided. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 1.

Al Anderson of San Francisco will be in charge of the dances.

BOY RAFFLES?

Los Angeles police, investigating death of Bruno Maria, 14, say Roy Kent, 13, above, who shot Maria, is a youthful Raffles. A search of the Kent household, the officers aver, produced numerous articles identified as stolen property.

Y. M. I. Planning Excursion on Bay

The local council of the Young Men's Institute will sponsor a bay excursion Sunday. A boat will leave the wharf of the Pacific Portland Cement plant at 10 o'clock that morning, and will cruze to points of interest about the bay, including Paradise Cove in Marin county and Carquinez straits. Dancing and other forms of entertainment will be arranged to add to the enjoyment of the trip. The return will be made about 5 o'clock in the evening. Friends of members of the council are being invited. Tickets may be secured from Ryans Drug Store or from any member of the Y. M. I. Arrangements are being made by a committee consisting of Con Cullen and Ernest Hecht.

Redwood Leading In "Y" Fund Drive

Incomplete reports from Burlingame and San Mateo showed Redwood City holding a substantial lead in its efforts to be first of the cities to reach its goal in the Finance Campaign for the work of the Young Men's Christian Assiciation.

D. W. Williams, general chairman of this section, reported $620 raised according to the reports of last evening.

Of the three majors, Henry Witte is leading with the largest percent of his goal raised, John Gill second, and Carl Wagner third.

Exchange Given Psychology Talk

Members of the Redwood City Exchange Club were given an interesting talk on psychology Tuesday evening. The speaker was the Rev. Ralph Smith, pastor of the Episcopal church of Menlo Park. The chairman of the meeting was John J. Garland, county milk inspector.

Lindsey Gray, secretary of the club, announced the annual outing of Exchange clubs to be held Saturday and Sunday at Healdsburg, under the auspices of the San Francisco club.

County to Supply Flower Basket For Legion Convention

San Mateo county will contribute to the success of the American Legion conclave to be held in Boston by supplying a huge basket of strawflowers from Montara. The basket is being arranged by Roscoe Wyatt, secretary of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce, and will be sent with the respects of the county Legion Posts. The basket measures six feet in height and is five and a half feet wide.

CEMENT PLANT UNVEILS YEAR'S SAFETY TROPHY

Beautiful Monument Presented To Plant Here By Portland Cement Association For Record of Entire Year Without Loss Time Accident In Plant

The plant of the Pacific Portland Cement Company and the officials and employees of the company were signally honored Wednesday afternoon when a beautiful trophy presented by the Pacific Portland Cement Association was presented because of the plant's wonderful record for safety. The trophy was presented by the association which embraces practically all cement mills from Alberta Canada to Montevideo in South America, 164 plants in all. It happens that the plant here had gone through a whole calender year without a single loss time accident to any employee.

The Portland Cement Association has been one of the leaders in safety work, and has done more for the safety of mill employees, perhaps, than any other association in the country. In their safety campaign the association devised the plan of presenting a trophy such as the one here to the mill each year which had the least loss of time through accident. They were surprised this year to find that 26 mills of the assciation had tied for first place without any loss of time accidents. The result is that 26 similar trophies are being presented. Two of these came to California; the one at the plant here ,and one in Victorville, in the southern part of the state.

The local plant has taken a leading part in the safety campaign, and this is the second time that it has gone through a year without accident. This is the first calender year, however, the association bases its award upon the year from January 1 to December 31.

The trophy was unveiled Wednesday before a gathering of employees and officers of the cement company and visitors. It consists of a large block of the finest concrete about eight feet high, six feet wide and two feet thick. On the front is sculptured in bold relief the form of Minerva, Grecian goddess of wisdom carrying the light of wisdom. Beside her stands Safety, personified as a brawny mechanic. Below is the inscription, "Safety Follows Wisdom."

An inscription below tells that this trophy was presented to the plant for its safety record during 1929. The trophy was designed by the Chicago Institute of Art. It was made of concrete to demonstrate the adaptability of this type of concrete to objects of art, and in fineness of texture and polish equals the finest granite.

The trophy was presented on behalf of the Portland Cement Association by A. J. R. Curtis, of Chicago, assistant president of the Portland Cement Association, who was introduced by J. H. Colton, vice-president of the Pacific Portland Cement Company. In presenting the trophy Curtis reviewed briefly the achievements which have been made in safety work, and also called attention to the fact that the products of these cement plants is aiding to a great extent in bringing safety in other lines of endeavor.

The trophy was unveiled by two young ladies, Miss Betty Gillispi and Miss Dorothy Haruff. It was presented on behalf of the company and the employees by Harry Stephens, captain of the plant's champion first aid team.

The first aid team is another safety factor which has been stressed in the cement association, and the local plant's team is considered one of the best in the group. On the evening prior to the unveiling of the trophy the Pacific Portland Cement Company's team won first place in the first aid contest at the 3rd annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Cement Association held at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco. Each member of the winning team was presented with a $20 gold piece and a silver medal from the National Safety Council. The team members are: Harry Stephens, captain; John Talkington; Jim Hunt; Wm. Norton; Tom Ryder; L. E. Bullis; and Fred Timeus.

In celebration of the winning of the safety trophy, the officials and employees of the local plant will hold a big picnic at Portola on Sunday. In addition to a big barbecue, the committee in charge has arranged an interesting program of events. These will include a baseball game between the single and married men, a tug of war between stock and mill, a boxing bout between Plant Champion Norton and K. O. Tavalero, relay races, games for the ladies and for the kiddies and numerous other events.

Oriental Held In S. M. Knifing

Chinese Brought to Jail For Alleged Attack on Three Others

Chin Cehw, San Mateo Chinese, was booked at the county jail on Wednesday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The attack for which Chin is held is alleged to hae been made upon Lee Gung and Lee Guey in the rear of the store of You Kee. Fook Shew also in the room, was attacked by Chin and was the most seriously injured. He was stabbed with a knife and his skull fractured. Lee Gung had his right eye gouged with the knife, and physicians say he will lose the sight of that member. Lee Guey was cut about and the face and neck.

Chin Chew is alleged to have made the attack in attempting a hold-up of his countrymen. He is said to have entered the room wearing a black mask and armed with a knife. He had disappeared before San Mateo police arrived on the scene. He was arrested about two hours later when found hiding under the bed in his room.

He was removed to the Community Hospital for treatment of wounds he had received in the fight, and was so far recovered on Wednesday as to be brought to the jail here.

Still Explosion Rocks Beresford

The explosion of a huge still early Wednesday morning disclosed one of the largest distilleries ever discovered in the county. The still was at Beresford Park in San Mateo. The blast occured at 3:00 o'clock and shook the vicinity for blocks around.

Police rushed to the scene of the explosion and discovered one of the most extensive arrangements for the illegal manufacture of liquor ever found here. Not the least interesting feaure of the affair was the fact that the still was connected with gas by tapping the gas main, and waste was run into the city sewers which had also been tapped. The plant was capable, it is said, of producing 1750 gallons of illicit liquor a day.

An investigation revealed that the property on which the still was located had been purchased a few weeks ago by an Angelo DeLuca, through Otto Getto, San Mateo realty dealer. A warrant for the arrest of DeLuca on a technical charge of using the city sewer without a permit was issued. The plant was seized by the police, who estimate its value at about $10,000.

MEXICO CITY OBSERVATORY SEEKS MORE SECLUDED SPOT

MEXICO CITY, Sept 18. (UP) — The meteorological bureau is seeking a new location for its observatory—one where it will be easier to distinguish between an earth quake and passing of a heavy laden truck. The observatory at present is situated in Tacubaya, Mexico City suburb, where increasingly heavy traffic is causing the seismograph to do strange tricks.

Nowadays, when the sensitive needle jumps off its track, the scientists in attendance are never certain whether a serious disturbance of nature has occurred or whether two taxi drivers have had a collision at the next corner. It is understood the observatory will be moved farther into the suburbs as soon as arrangements can be made.

The "Endurance Age"

What, with sustained flights of several weeks, flagpole and tree sitters who stay up for days and bicycle riders who pedal around for hours—later historians may refer to this as the "Endurance Age."

This seems unlikely, however, when you consider most of these physical and mechanical orgies accomplish little or nothing, leave no lasting impressions and are quickly forgotten as new champions are declared and other nonsensical stunts take their place.

Despite the unfriendly attitude of the public and press towards such enterprises, something new in the line turns up almost every day, and occasionally one makes some sort of a contribution to science or engineering. The latest in endurances that may be classed in this category is the "lark" of the two St. Louis youths who drove their car in reverse across the country and back.

These boys received little personal praise or publicity for their physical feat of having been constantly on the run for 42 days, getting little sleep and enduring all sorts of hardships in their tedious trek from New York City to Los Angeles and return. It was the automotive and Texas company engineers who pounced upon the backward "flivver" for a minute examination of its mechanical parts who revealed that this stunt really accompilshed something.

An engine which has been run constantly for 42 days drove the automobile on a round trip of 7,180 miles, all of it at five times the strain to which the car normally would be subjected. In reverse gear the "Back-Up" boys averaged eight to eleven miles an hour, and this speed based on a gearing ratio which is five in high to one in reverse, means that that motor worked the equivalent to constant travel at from 40 to more than 50 miles an hour.

More than that, though, the engineers were interested in knowing how it was done, and analyses of the journey accordingly showed that a new crack-proof motor oil of consistent thickness compensated for engine strain. In brief, only the usual carbon deposits could be found as negative features of the mechanical side of the show. If nohting else, the "back-up" trip was a remarkable demonstration of oil, gear and general engine performance. The lessons learned may well be used for the benefit of millions of motorists in the future.

Electric Age Not Yet Really Here

Doctor Willis R. Whitney, head of the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company at Schenectady does not admit that we are living in an electrical age. The use of electricity is still in its infancy instead of being a full grown giant as many believed when Edison invented the electric light fifty years ago, Doctor Whitney says in the American Magazine. We are just beginning to learn a few little things about it, and how to use instruments already designed.

"When everybody begins to use electricity for all the purposes to which it is adapted," says Doctor Whitney, "it will be immensely cheaper. You may think you are in the electrical age. But do not forget that of every three homes in the United States, one is not wired for electricity. Only one-tenth of our farms have electricity. And out of every three homes only one uses electrical apparatus. And yet, at a recent electrical show, 22,000 different electrical appliances were on display. Only two per cent of our railroad trackage is operated by electricity."

Doctor Whitney points out that since the World War, living has increased 70 per cent but the cost of electricity has decreased 25 per cent. When it is put to general use it will be so cheap that there will be no excuse for not using it for every purpose, he contends.

"Never Read the Papers"

Doctor Finley, former Commissioner of Education of the State of New York, says that if a child does not read, once he has learned to read, he is likely to become as much of an illiterate as if he had never learned.

The person who admits that he "never reads the papers" invariably discloses his ignorance when he talks about public questions, or events; and while he may not be what is strictly known as an illiterate he defeats the very purpose of the public school system, the publication of newspapers, and all other processes of education.

Make Your Purchases Now

Within the last few months prices have taken a terrific fall due to the depreassion, and the buying public, if it is in a position to make purchases, should do so now. As we scan the market pages of various newspapers we are agreeably surprised with the downward trend.

Practically every commodity can be bought much cheaper than at any time since the war, and we would suggest that it is profitable to buy right now. When busines gets back to normal there will be an upward trend of these prices so that it is the part of good business to buy now.

Farm commodities can be purchased at lower prices than some months hence, and this applies to practically all of the things that are grown on the farm. We would urge our readers to follow the market prices, and the prices quoted in the advertisements run in the Standard, and grasp the opportunities that are offered.

Fire Prevention Week Coming

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that the fire loss during July was $34,847,750—$2,862,257 more than in July, 1929. The total loss for the first seven months of this year has been $277,187,521, as compared with $262,078,288 during the same period last year, an increase of more than $15,000,000.

The discouraging fact is that we are once more on our way toward a half-billion dollar annual waste. For the past few years there has been a small but steady decrease in annual loss and it was hoped that the American people were at last becoming "fire conscious." Apparently the hope was unfounded. Carelessness and ignorance continue to destroy, through the medium of fire, thousands of irreplaceable lives and a gigantic amount of property each year.

The week of October 5-11 has been set aside as "Fire Prevention Week." Once more private and public organizations will endeavor to instill in the public a knowledge of fire hazards, of the need for better building construction and the like. Once more we will have the opportunity to learn, under expert guidance, lessons that are of direct financial benefit to all of us.

The issue is up to the public. Our gigantic fire loss is a menace to prosperity, to home building, to industrial progress. it is a national disgrace that can be remedied only by unceasing vigilance in our homes and places of business.

Roads and Population

Good roads are so necessary to modern life that people will change their place of abode to get them.

The new census figures for four southern states show that the only one of them to do any extensive road building in the past decade increased her population 24 per cent. The others gained only about three per cent.

An adequate mileage of paved highways is as necessary to progress as railroad or electric service. Congestion on main highways has become a big problem in many states.

New roads render invaluable service to the people. This is especially true in the rural localities. We cannot have farm prosperity until farms are connected with markets and the outside world by surfaced, year-round roads. Motorization of agriculture is as essential as motorization of industry.

It is safe to say that the states which are now undertaking extensive road developments will be the prosperous, progressive and growing sections of the future, providing their road building expeditures are made along scientific and business-like lines.

Keep Up Advertising Go After Business

R. H. Ballard, president of the Southern California Edison Company, Los Angeles, said:

"More new business is what we need and not so much talk of depression. Spend the money for new business campaigns and new advertising, and the results will be surprising The people have the money and will buy goods, I believe, if somebody has the courage to sell them the buying idea."

He pointed to increase in savings deposits, gains in new life insurance in force and increased buying of bonds as evidence of the ability of consumers to buy goods if they so desire. Affected, however, by the pessimistic drift of national comment, the public is reluctant to buy and consequently is building up a tremendous backlog of purchasing power.

This backlog should and can be tapped, declared Mr. Ballard, if American business men snap out of an apathetic state of mind and employ redoubled efforts to produce new business. This is not the time, in his opinion, to lay off salesmen and cut advertising appropriations.

Self-conquest is the greatest of victories. —Plato.

HEYWOOD BROUN

JOE WILLIAMS, Batting for Heywood Broun

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Mencken are at home to friends at 1,524 Hollins Street., Baltimore. A few days before his fiftieth birthday rolls around America's noisiest and most interesting bachelor took unto himself a helpmate. Or perhaps the more chaste phase, a file partner, is the one he would prefer.

At any rate, the man said he never would and wrote it oftener and with more vehemence than anybody else in this generation now has. I suppose the only difference between Mencken and a million other males is that he had an audience and that, preforce or otherwise, he waited longer to climb out of his masquerade suit.

Still it seems to me there ought to be a law against professional bachelors such as the Menckens, Even when they are clowning. Most of us go out and get ourselves married too early. A canoe ride on a silver lake. . . . A one-step to boop a doop music. . . . A walk in the moonlight under whispering maples. Out of such all-revealing soul stuff is matrimony made.

A young husband never knows how the proposition is going to work out. Nor a young wife, for that matter. There is no guarantee of complete, uninterrupted happiness or your ring back in the sealing rituals. At the moment, of course, neither of the contracting parties would want such a material guarantee.

Only at 20 or thereabouts is it posible to breath the fire of high romance and pure gallantry into the words, "Sugar Baby, I'll stick with you until the Red Sox win a championship."

At a more matured age discreet qualifications creep in. Surely no eloping sophomore from Smith struck the first militant protest against that part of the vows which demands that the lady obey every will and whim of her drate big daddy. This undoubtedly came some years later between a discussion of civic or moral issues at one of the Tuesday meetings of the Society for the Uplift of the Modern Wife.

Where Angles Fear to Tread.

My experience as the male lead in Hymen's parade has been very limited, and beyond a fairly heated debate with the officiating clergyman in one of the outer rooms concerning the vital pertinent question of whether Mr. Johnny Kilbane, then the featherweight champion, could or could not fight, my memory of the more minute details of the affair is not altogether clear.

But I am sure that at no time was the ceremony interrupted by either the male or the female lead with the request that that which had just been read be re-read slowly and with interpretations in order that there might not be any acceptance of difficult tenets.

It might even be true that not a single phrase of that solemn formality penetrated the whirring senses of the two principals, though I hasten to add that in making this assertion even at this late and philisophic period I am speaking only for myself.

So intense was his enthusiasm for baseball that Mr. George Herman Ruth did not bother to read a single line of the contract which wedded him to the profession for life until he was handed his fourth one to sign. Then he learned, to his consternation and rage, that he had been paying for his own uniforms all those years. I suspect that with the very young the formalities of marriage are much like that.

The Great Betrayal.

It isn't until years later that you have any time or patience for fellows like Mencken, who wrote about homemade prisons and the delightful sanities of bachelorhood. Possibly you are interested in their doctrines only from the point of view of the academicians.

Or it may be that you held out for the mountains and she insisted on the seashore, and the fury of the controversy did not cool off right away.

In such an emotional state you are a pushover for any theorizing priest who intones specious hymns to the enchantments of life with the boys over at the Moose Club.

I say that it is bad for the peace of mind of those who knew no extended bachelorhood to have had a Mencken in the pulpit, for verily he is a false prophet who practices not what he preaches.

Of course, it may be pointed out that he made an important contribution to the cause by holding off as long as he did. On the contrary, I hold that he is entitled to no credit from the cult. There is little that is adventurous or chivalrous about a love hazard at 50.

At that age the seas of romance have all been charted and the jungle lands of the heart hold no unknown perils. The Lindbergh flight would not have been half as exciting if he had waited until he was 49 to do it. It is always much more thrilling to fill a straight flush than to draw one on the deal.

To those of us among the yoked yokelry and the bondaged babitry who have been impiously tempted by the man's studied suavities Mencken stands now as a mocking sham and a faithless leader.

All the while he was in the back room philosophizing over his ale and kraut, at syndicate rates, he was yearning for a phone call!

It's in the Bag.

A lot of husbands who joined up with the first army feel pretty sure that Mencken has taken the easy out. At 50 the exemptions are many. The bachelor apostate has never danced or played golf. With some logic he can plead that it is too late to start now. After all, Jack Donahue started to dance at 12, and Bobby Jones cut his eye teeth on a mashie niblick.

There is, therefore, small possibility of a rift developing because the male Mencken failed to catch the rhythm of "Good for You—Bad for me" at the regular Saturday night supper dance or because in a desparing moment he threw down his clubs and walked off the course when the lady for the third time during the round tried to get out of a sand trap with a drive. But, fortunately, there are other dangers. It is conceivable that the espoused Mrs. Mencken may develop a curiosity not entirely foreign to the sex and demand to know precisely what he had in mind when he wrote this and that.

It is not difficult to picture her entering the master's library with some of his old papers after the Amos 'n' Andy program is ended and inquireing:—"Henry, you say here that when a man gets up in years he can't be sure whether he needs a wife or a nurse, but in the end he always winds up by getting a wife because it's less expensive. Now, I'd like to know what you meant by that."

And—the chances are—so would Henry.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery leave home to seek their fortunes in New York.

Sally's brother, Bert, who is in love with Lois, follows them.

Lois meets a young man whom she knew when she was a wealthy woman's secretary.

He and a chap named FRISBY show her and Sally little attention, but Lois' thoughts are chiefly on the problems of existence.

Lois finally gets a job with a firm of interior decorators. Sally struggles for a foothold in the movies. They have a hard time making both ends meet.

Sally enters hospital training, finally convinced that the films hold no future for her.

Lois is absorbed i nher own work.

During her employer's illness, she is sent to the palatial residence of James Walton to make a preliminary report.

Sally's liking for gay company causes a coolness between herself and Lois.

CHAPTER 15

A Misplaced Key

Sally went back to the hospital and got away with it somehow. Lois didn't see her for a couple of weeks, so she never heard directly the outcome of Sally's adventure. It wasn't until several years afterward that she knew the truth.

She was worried about Sally in the weeks that followed that anxious night, and she was distressed that there was a break in their friendship. But her work, with Mrs. Dunleigh ill, kept her occupied, and, besides, she had, with great trepidation, begun the job of decorating James Wilton's Italian palace.

She had sent in her plans with a guilty hope that they would be turned down. Walton frightened her and yet facinated her. She couldn't conceive of working to advantage under that piercing gray gaze.

He rang her up at the shop a few days later. "The stuff you sent me is okay. I want the work begun at once and finished in the shortest possible time. What will that be?"

She told him tentatively. It was apparently satisfactory. She began her daily trips from town to the Long Island estate. The spring had advanced until the whole countryside was green. It was good to leave New York those days - - - if she hadn't had to make up for the hours of her absence by longer hours at the shop. It was sometimes midnight when she wound up the daily affairs that should have been attended to by one of her absent employers.

The day that she actually began the work Walton followed her about, watching, but making no comment. She felt that he was displeased. She wished she knew. The inscrutability of the man unnerved her. She felt an insane desire to tear aside the veil, to find out what he was really thinking.

He took to dropping in every couple of days, but he never said a word of approval or disapproval. Gradually he began to talk to her about herself. She was reticent, at first, but she soon found that he possessed an irresistible charm that drew confidences from her almost without her being aware of it. He was human, after all. Gradually, without realizing it, she found herself looking forward to his visits. She would think, in the morning, as she hurried to the train: "He didn't come yesterday, or the day before. He will come today. He has never stayed away more than three days."

She should have been warned by her insistance in her own mind that it was the work that drew him. But she wasn't. She should have been warned, perhaps by her experience with Philip Harding. But she wasn't.

She hadn't encountered Harding since that memorable night when she had fled from his apartment. She rarely saw Martin Frisby, but one night something unpleasant happened that was to have a bearing on future events.

She came home from the shop very late, weary and hungry. In the foyer of her apartment-house, a tall figure rose from an imitiation marble bench at her approach. To her amazement she found herself confronting Bert Todd.

"The bad penny turns up again," he said, with a grin. "Say, where have you been? I've been here ever since I hit town, at five this afternoon."

She asked what brought him to New York, and he spoke vaguely of business. She learned long afterward, from her brother, Steve, that Bert had been mixed up in some shady affair and had been paid to get out when the authorities started an investigation, lest he turn state's evidence.

"Had dinner?" he asked.

She shook her head.

"Come along with me,"," he suggested, but she protested: "Oh Bert, I'm too tired. If you promise not to stay long you can come up to my apartment while I make a sandwich."

He agreed and followed her. She busied herself in her tiny kitchen while he leaned indolently against the door and smoked a cigarette.

"Not through yet with this business-career nonsense?" he queried.

She told him about her work, about the Walton commission. He looked disgusted.

"You and Sally give me a pain! Why don't you marry me? I'm crazy about you, Lois. You can just make me jump through a hoop, if you want to."

He took a step toward her, but she backed away and proffered a sandwich, laughing. He shrugged and accepted the sandwich, but he said:

"I'll never give you up."

They disposed of the sandwiches and iced ginger ale, and Lois was just about to remind Bert of his promise to leave when there was the rattle of a key in the lock. Lois's first thought was of Sally. She had given Sally a key on that unfortunate night of the motor accident. Sally hadn't returned it ,or used it since.

But it wasn't Sally who entered so uncermoniously. It was Frisby, foolishly drunk. He lurched into the living-room, greeted Lois and Bert with an inane grin and an owlish wink.

Lois found her voice. "What are you doing here?" she demanded indignantly.

"Wooldn't you like to know?" he replied, with an exaggerated slyness, and he uttered an admonitory "Ssh!"

Lois had almost forgotten Bert, until he growled at her elbow: "Who is this guy? How does he happen to have a key to your apartment?"

That brought Lois to a realization of the situation. How did Frisby happen to possess her latch-key? She asked him.

"Lil' bird gave it to me," he laughed.

Lois held out her hand. "Give it back to me and get out," she said icily. "How dare you come here in this manner!"

But he backed away from her, clutching the key in his hand.

Bert took one stride and grasped Frisby none too gently by the collar of his well-cut dinner jacket.

"Come across with that key before I make you." His hand slid down Frisby's arm and closed on the latter's wrist. Frisby dropped the key with a howl. It fell on the rug, and Lois picked it up. Had Sally given it to Frisby, or had he stolen it? Whatever happened ,she must say nothing to Bert of Sally's part in this situation.

Bert asked her, grimly: "What shall I do with this fellow?

Frisby had, apparently, sobered a little, or had become aware of Bert's strength. He said, with an attempt at dignity that was more ludicrous than his previous inanities: "I'm going . . . .Three's a crowd."

Bert released him, and he staggered through the door. Bert turned to Lois.

"So that's it, is it? That's the dude who was at the ranch this summer . . . . And I've been thinking of you as my ideal. I must have given you a lot to laugh about . . . . Well . . . . now we understand each other . . . ."

WHY DIDN'T HE JUMP

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., (UP)—Up on the first airplane flight in his life, Howard Evers, asked the pilot to circle over the Evers' homestead. The pilot did and Evers became excited. "Get me down quick, the pasture's burning," he said, motioning toward a fire below them. The fire burned 20 acres of grass which the father of Evers was saving for late pasture.

SWITCHES TO WETS

RED SCHOOL HOUSE WINS

CANTON, O., (UP)—The efficient modern grade schools and junior high schools will not replace the little red school house of Pike Township, near here. When put to a vote centerlization received a crushing defeat.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

By RONALD W. WAGONER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 19 (UP)—Kay Francis is happy today because she has succeeded in living down the title of "The Best Dressed Woman on the Screen."

Like many beautiful women who have entered motion pictures Miss Francis discovered that because she knew how to wear clothes the producers and public did not expect her to do any acting.

It was only after months of decorating some of Hollywood's leading productions that Kay obtained her chance to do some dramatic work in her own right in "The Virtucus Sin," her latest picture.

This role is highly emotional and Kay joyfully discarded her sleek boyish bob for a coiffure which hides her ears and ends in a large knot at the back of her neck. Elimination of her traditional hair style was the first step toward a complete change of character for the popular actress.

Ever since Miss Francis came to Hollywood she has been identified with dangerous women parts. She has played as the home wrecker, the siren and the great lure which draws men from home and firesides.

The daily life of the actress, however, is not in accord with the reputation she gained in pictures. She explains this by the fact that she never wanted to play vamp parts and always yearned to be a dramatic actress.

Miss Francis wears modest gowns in her travels around Hollywood—never going to extremes. There are no exotic hangings or vapors of incense in her home or dressing rooms. Hundreds of actresses spend more money than she on wardrobes. Few, however, are able to acquire the same "million dollar" effect out of an ordinary dress.

Miss Francis says she receives hundreds of letters weekly from women asking her for advise on the art of dressing.

"I try to answer them," the actress said, "because I honestly get a thrill out of the knowledge that many women regard me as well dressed. It would please me more, however, if they would ask more questions about dramatic acting. I am hoping that this will come to me with roles I hope to play in the future."

Hollywood recognizes Miss Francis and Gloria Swanson as the two women of the movie colony most adapted to proper wearing of expensive gowns. Miss Swanson, like Miss Francis, had a struggle in gaining recognition as an actress rather than a "clothes horse."

Miss Francis has none of the eccentricities usually attributed to vampires.

She does not diet.

She never shows spells of temperament.

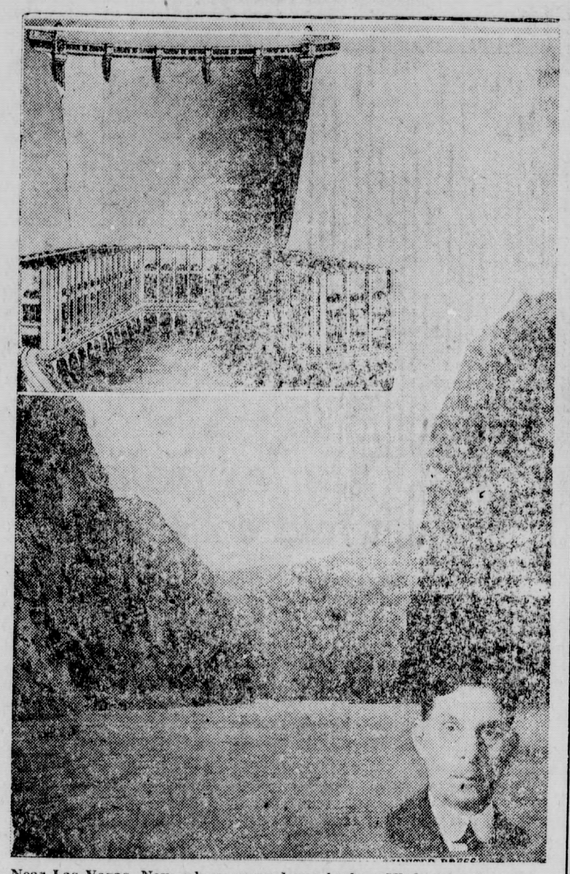
She has kept one maid for a period of three years.

She likes, bold, bad men rather than the sleek type.

In order that the impression might not be gained that Miss Francis has no weakness, let it be written that she loves perfumes. In her own words:

"I'm rather dippy about them."

SITE OF BOULDER DAM



Near Las Vegas, Nev., where ground was broken Wednesday for erection of the $165,000,000 barrier for impounding of waters of the Colorado river. The dam, it is estimated, will be 400 feet wide at bottom, 825 feet wide at top, 650 feet thick at bottom, 16 feet thick at top and will rise 700 feet from foundation to crest, twice the height of any existent dam. County Aids In Extermination Of Tuberculosis

White Plague Fast Becoming Eradicated by State And County

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18 —UP— Tuberculosis, once the dreaded "White Plague" of California, is rapidly passing out of existance. By 1940 the disease will be virtually unknown.

Such is the prediction of Mrs. Edythe L. M. Tate - Thompson, chief of the state bureau of tuberculosis, who says that California has made one of the most spectacular reductions in its turberculosis death rate of any state in the union.

"Since passage of the tuberculosis subsidy law in 1915, California has reduced its death rate from this disease from 189 per 100,000 of population to 106.8," said Mrs. Thompson. "This is a reduction of 83 points, or approximately 44 per cent, in fourteen years."

Despite a statewide increase in population of approximately 90 per cent since 1915, deaths from tuberculosis have increased only 5 per cent, she points out. "T.B" deaths in California last year totaled 5,855, as against 5,551 in 1915. During the same period, the state's population mounted from 2,940,483 to 5,672,009.

San Mateo county contributed largely to the state's record, Mrs. Thompson added. Last year a total of 75 persons died of tuberculosis in the county, as compared to 45 in 1915. This was in spite of an increase of more than 125% in the county's population during the 14-year period.

The best previous record over a large area was the 50 per cent cut in the death rate for the United States as a whole over a period of 25 years, announced recently by the National Tuberculosis Association.

California, in 14 years, has nearly equaled this record, and by the end of the comparable 25-year period—if the present rate of reduction is maintained — will far surpass the national record.

Credit for the spectacular reduction was given largely to county officials of this state are a large Thompson.

Nowhere else in the world have officials given such whole-hearted support to the effort to stamp out the "White Plague" and the ultra-co-operative policies of the county officials o fthis state are a large factor in our success thus far," she said.

State Quarantine Wins Favor of S. A. Visitors In Calif.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18 — (UP —California's quarantine policies and methods of excluding plant and animal pests are receiving the approval of several Latin American countries.

The latest endorsement was given this week by Alejandro Von der Heyde Garrigos and Julio Cesar Paldoa, spokesmen for the Argentine delegation to the recent Pan-American Reciprocal Trade Conference.

Von der Heyde Garrigos and Paldao, both prominent grape and fruit growers of Mendoza, Argentine, endorsed the California system after a study of several weeks and have informed George H. Hecke, state director of Agriculture, of their approval.

In a joint statement they said:

"We had the impression that your quarantines were tariffs in disguise; that these quarantines were imposed on other countries as a commercial protection against imports. We believed that quarantine was an obstacle to reciprocal trade and a barrier to trade relations between the various countries of Pan-America.

"Since our stay in California, we have an entirely different viewpoint of quarantines. We wish to state now that we are in complete accord with the policiies of California on quarantines. We know now that these quarantines have no relation at all to tariffs; that they are imposed only for the express purpose of excluding dangerous pests and diseases.

"Instead of being obstacles to reciprocity, we now believe that quarantines are an aid to reciprocity. We know that there will be a greater exchange of farm commodities between various Pan-American countries when the standardization of those commodities become uniform."

Paldao, vice-president of the National Society of Fruit Culture of Argentina, and, as is Von der Heyde Garrigos, a representative of the Export Grape Producers Association of Mendoza and San Juan, announced, he will return to Argentina to urge his country, and other South American nations, to adopt quarantine policies similar to California's.

Both men also suggested trained entomologists, skilled in pest control, be attached to every embassy, so as to keep each country informed of the progress of pest eradication and control.

Riggleman Will Represent Calif. In Agriculture

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 10. (UP)—John R. Riggleman, nationaly known market analyst, has been chosen to represent the State of California at Washington, D. C., it is announced by the state bureau of commerce.

Riggleman, identified for the last year with the United States department of commerce in connection with its public building and other construction projects, is well acquainted with California's products and marketing problems.

He was for 8 years an independent market counselor engaged in consulting work, in the analysis of local, national and foreign markets for California products.

CHANGE OF HEART

LOVELAND, Colo. (UP)—A thief had a change of conscience here. One night he stole a flower box from the porch of Mrs. Elizabeth Allen. The next night he returned it.

SENTENCE THEMSELVES

DOVER, O. (UP) — When two Dover youths were brought before Mayor W. R. Stucky on a charge of raising too much "whoopee' in a local theatre, he told them to set their own sentences. They condemned themselves to confinement in the immediate vicinity of their homes

Crozier Aids Chinese Art

Major General Gives Money To Repair Towers of Forbidden City

PEIPING, Sept. 18 (UP)—Major-General William Crozier, retired officer in the United States army, has shown once more his keen interest in the monuments of this ancient capital by providing the money to restore the two center-towers on the south wall of the Forbidden City. These towers were falling into ruin, but will now be repaired with General Crozier's gift.

General Grozier first came to old Peiping in 1900, as chief ordinance officer with the allied expedition which relieved the legations from the Boxer siege. He took an immediate interest in Chinese art and Chinese monuments, and has been an eager student of Chinese affairs ever since.

Time and again General Crozier and his wife have visited Peiping, and have made a notable collection of old Chinese jades, bronzes, lacquers and paintings, which they intend to present to some museum. They have spent most of the past year in this city.

Two years ago, when General Chiang Kai-skek came to Peiping he was impressed with the dilapidated condition of the Forbidden City, and gave $50,000 for repairs. The old palaces are now in better condition than they have been for years.

With General Chiang's money the two north wall towers of the Forbidden City were repaired, but there was not enough for the south wall towers. General Crozier has now made it possible to restore the remaining two towers, so that repairs of the wall and their towers will be complete.

River Combers Find Profits In Shells, "Spuds"

Pearls and Lotus Lily Seeds Also Bring Income To Residents

RED WING, Minn., Sept 18. (UP) —Three industries, little known but furnishing employment to many inhabitants, are found along the banks of the upper Mississippi, extending from here south to well into Iowa.

"River spuds," lotus lily seeds, clam shells and "slugs" are the products of these industries.

Scores of "clammers,' 'whose yearly income comes from clams scraped from the river bottom, also market "river spuds," potato-like bulbs that grow in the muddy bottoms. There is a good demand for these bulbs in Chicago markets. Some few "clammers" also collect lotus lily seeds which they dispose of once a year and which later become blossoms in many homes.

This year two hundred tons of clam shells, a half bushel of slugs" or irregular shaped fresh water pearls and a tiny handful of well lustered valuable pearls represent the summer's output on the river between the head of Lake Pepin and Diamond Bluff.

The output of clammers at Frontenac, Wacouta, Maiden Rock, Trenton and along the Vermillion will bring the major share of raw material to pearl button factories in the east.

The "river supds" are also known as Indian potatoes and have a decidedly pleasing flavor. Only a few hundred bushels wil be harvested in this region.

"Pa and Ma" Night Planned at Sequoia

"Pa and Ma" night will be observed, tonight in the Sequoia gymnasium at the Sequoia '10s and '20s basketball game with the Commerce High basketball squads of San Francisco. Students accompanied by their parents will be admitted free as will the parents.

The boys' board of athletic control is arranging facilities to seat the capacity crowd expected to attend the game. Knockdown bleachers are to be erected along the gym floor for this evening's games.

The Sequoia 110-pound team which defeated the Lowell '10s will probably remain unchanged. The lineup is: McGuire and Swanson, forwards; Inouye, center; Matheson and Shine, guards. With Murphy Fakouri and Aabel in reserve.

The 120-pounders, which dropped a close fought battle to Lowell, 20 to 16, will probably remain unchanged, with Pommes and Kniveton, forwards; Blasdel, center; Demma and Garcia, guards. Coach Frank Griffin will probably keep, E. Garcia, Ong, Hirsch, and Baron in reserve.

Grand Parlor Will Dedicate Building

The Grand Parlor of Native Sons of the Golden West will dedicate the new grammar school at San Carlos Saturday afternoon. It will be assisted by Redwood Parlor, No. 66, N. S. G. W. The dedicatory ceremonies are to start at 3o'clock. The following program will be carried out:

1. Introductory remarks, chairman John B. Bryan, board of school trustees.
2. Song, school children.
3. San Carlos History, Asa E. Hull.
4. Vocal Solos, Mrs. Fred G. Lyon.
5. Remarks, Roy W. Cloud, secretary of California State Teachers' Association.

MENLO PARK

On October 8 the annual dance of the Menlo Park Fire department will be held in Blue Moon Hall. Good music has been engaged for the occasion. This dance is usually the big event of the season.

C. E. Thomas has purchased a home in Valparaiso avenue and has moved from the Crane cottage on Laural avenue. The cottage has been taken by Officer Dyer of the police department.

Weeden Brothers have been awarded a contract for a large greenhouse at St. Helena to cost several thousand dollars. The structure is for Mrs. J. Landfield, a wealthy resident of that city. Mayor Weeden left yesterday to take charge of the construction..

Miss de Masse, through W. F. Monroe, has leased the Sutton apartments, corner highway and Santa Cruz avenue.

Menlo Junior College opened for the fall term, Tuesday with a record attendance of 335 pupils. The high school has an attendance of 135 and the junior college 200. There is a waiting list of 85. The college prepares students for Stanford. Among the young men entering the junior college from this locality are, Edward O'Keefe, Richard Chilcott, Maston King, the two Clancy brothers, J. Baracchi and John O'Neill.

Ward E. Monroe, the local live real estate man, has ben admitted to membership in the Redwood City Real Estate District Board, and is thus entitled to the appelation of realtor. Mr. Monroe has petitioned Governor Young for appointment as a notary public for Menlo Park. His growing business necessitates having a notary seal in his office.

D. E. O.Keefe, Edward O'Keefe, Mrs. James T. O'Keefe and her daughter Marcella, just returned from a trip to the O'Keefe Brothers mines on the forks of the Salmon river in Siskiyou county. There is a big run of steel head in the Salmon river and each of the party caught the limit. A three point buck weighing 125 pounds was shot by Edward O'Keefe. The season there is later than the one in this county. Adjoining this mining property is located the fishing preserve of President Herbert Hoover which was to have been visited this year but owing to the draught in the east the president was unable to come west. These fishing streams are owned by the president, Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of interior, Dr. Williams of Palo Alto and other men of prominence. This property is located on Willow Creek, fifteen miles from any trail or road and can only be reached on horseback. Dr. Wilbur only recently visited the place and secured the limit in trout each day he was there.

There is only one route to the Bayshore Boulevard from Menlo Park and that is over Oak Grove avenue. The talk of any other is simply assaninity. This is the only feasible and direct route and if the business men of Menlo Park desire to connect with the new highway they will have to accept it. Some years ago when the avenue was extended over Middlefield road to the Flood property the late John Mac Bain, then supervisor, repaired and extended the road, the county paying half the cost and the adjoining property owners settling for the other half. At that time the late James L. Flood had plans prepared for the further extension of the road through his land to the Bay road, he to pay all costs of construction. The wealthy land owners there protested and Mr. Flood abandoned the project, much against his wishes. If the residents of Menlo Park are luke warm on this subject and are willing that the travel on this new highway go to Palo Alto without some diversion to Menlo Park, well and good. After all it is really up to the people. They are the ones to make the start in the matter.

John Garland, county milk inspector owing property on Middle and Olive avenues, protested by resolution against the empounding of waters of Bear Gulch Creek, a tributary of San Francisquito creek, by the Bear Gulsh Water Company, unless it can be shown that storage of said waters will not deplete the underground waters of adjacent territory in the region commonly known as the San Francisquito Cone, last Monday before the Board of Supervisors. Stanford University has applied to the Division of Water Resources of the State of California for the construction of a dam on the San Francisquito creek south of Searsville and the application will soon be passed upon by that body. The Bear Gulch Company is about to raise its dam and naturally protests against the Stanford dam. The City of Palo Alto protests against the construction of either dam for the reason that the empounding of the waters might affect the subterranean streams feeding water to wells in this community. If it can be shown that the wells will not suffer from the storage of water all protests from those concerned will be withdrawn. This vital question should be determined before any new reservoir be built. There can hardly be any objection to the objection to the raising of the dam of the Bear Gulch Company for it must secure a large supply of water to meet the growing demands made upon the plant by increasing population. Mr. Garland stated to the supervisors that wells as far north as San Carlos might be affected by the empounding of water. The storage of water in winter would be a good thing if no injury would result to the wells as otherwise the stream would flow to the bay and be wasted. Palo Alto is wide awake to its interests, while Menlo Park is sleeping.

Mrs. Frank Krauer, wife of the wildly known restaurant owner, passed away after a lingering illness at her home here Tuesday evening. The deceased came here after the world war and has lived in Menlo Park since. She is survived by her husband and two small children. She was beloved by all who knew her.

J. B. Leonard, a former resident of Menlo Park, visited friends here this week. He erected the beautiful Raymond home on Oak Grove avenue some years ago. Mr. Leonard is the chief engineer and building inspector for the city of San Francisco.

Miss Rose Casalengo, one of Menlo's loveliest daughters, will be united in marriage tomorrow to Edwin Lane, late of New York. The young couple will reside in Los Angeles. The pretty bride to be was born and raised in Menlo Park and some years ago graduated from St. Joseph's Parochial school.

According to tse official account of the late James Rolph, Jr., received 293 votes in the five Menlo Park precincts against 180 for C. C. Young, a clear majority of 113. This is a good vote for the mayor considering the big organization the governor had here. The good results are due, mainly, to the efforts of the Rolph for governor club of Menlo Park.

The city council met in special session Tuesday night with all members present with the exception of Dr. Blake.

The resignation of Frank Love as street superintendent was accepted and B. L. Mehl, city engineer, appointed to fill the vacancy.

Ordinance 46 was amended allowing for the appointment of a special officer at $100 a month salary. He to work six hours a day. The ordinance was laid over until the next meeting to consider compensation for extra work to be done while on duty.

An agreement with the Shell Oil Company to furnish certain patented pavement material for use on Hoover street at a stipulated price to bidders was ratified by the council.

A resolution authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the improving of Hoover street was adopted whereupon the engineer presented the plans and specifications which was on motion filed with the city clerk.

The plans call for a one and one-half Golas wearing surface laid on four-inch water bound rock base on the steet, curves and sidewalks, and sewer laterals. The intersections on Valparaiso avenue and Oak Grove at Hoover street are included in the proposed improvements, Mr. Mehl said he made an effort to have the improvements done for $3.-30 a front foot but all property owners on the street would not agree to this so the work would have to go to bids. He thought the cost would be about $10,000. Resolution of intention 30-2 was ordered published according to law.

The city engineer presented a map of Live Oak street that is to be extended and opened. City Attorney presented an ordinance authorized the council to proceed with the work and same was accepted by title. Mayor Weeden said that one of the owners on the street agreed to sell his lot over which the new street will be excended for $18 a front foot. It is thought other owners will accept the same figure.

The public hearing on the new zoing ordinance was fixed for Oct. 7. Dale insisted that the ordinance be adopted at that time as much time was already lost in the matter.

URGE CORN CUTTING

WABASH, Ind. (UP)—Raising of tall corn is not encouraged in Wabash county, at least not near cross roads. County road commissioners sent a request to all farmers to cut enough of their corn near the corner of fields to enable passing motorists to obtain an unobstructed view of oncoming cars. Several accidents occurred in the county due to inability of motorists to see around the grain, it was said.

JAW BREAKING YAWN

MILWAUKEE (UP)—John Vogel, 51, yawned so heartily he dislocated his jaw here recently. The big yawn came when Vogel aroused himself from a nap taken in a park. Attendants at City Emergency hospital set the ailing jaw.

SPANNING THE GOLDEN GATE

Architect's conception of the south approach of the $32,000,000 bridge that will connect San Francisco with Marin county. The proposed bridge will have a length of 8,943 feet. Towers will rise 740 feet above the flooring. Clearance above high tide will be 220 feet.

Attorney General Issues Ruling On Senatorial Apportionment

Reapportionment Of State Causes Confusion

CLEVELAND TO REMAIN

Special Elections Would Add To Difficulties Is Belief

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Attorney General U. S. Webb ruled this week that special elections for state senators will not be held. Reversing an earlier opinion issued some two years ago in which he ruled that Senator Fellom of San Francisco should continue to represent the 21st district, now comprised of San Mateo county. Under the new ruling, Senator George Cleveland, who was elected under the old district comprised of the counties of San Mateo, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties, will again represent this county until 1932, at which time a senator will be elected from this county.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 18. (UP)—After the smoke of battle had cleared away from the recent primary election, it was discovered that California's state legislature has already begun to feel the effects of the state's new reapportionment system.

Seven counties will be absolutely occupy seats in the senate, having been successful in their campaigns for the republican nomination.They are: R. R .Ingels, Potter Valley; Charles H. Deued, Chico; Bradford S. Crittenden, Tracy; Dan E. Williams, Chinese Camp; Sam L. Heisinger, Selma; Frank W. Mixter, Exeter, and William E. Harper, San Diego.

Seven counties will be abscolutely without representation in the senate as a result of the new "federal plan" of reapportionment in effect this year for the first time. They are Modoc, Shasta, Lassen, Amador, Alpine, Yolo and Kings.

Six counties, or parts of them, on the other hand, will have double representation, and include Del Norte, Tehama and portions of San Francisco, Alameda, Los Angeles and Santa Clara counties.

In San Francisco, Senator Roy Fellon defeated Senators J. J. Crowley and Tom Maloney for the lone senate seat alloted to that county. As Fellom already was a senator, a special election may be held to fill his vacancy. The same situation prevails in Alameda county, where Senator Arthur S. Breed defeated Senators Edgar S. Hurley and T. C. West; and in Los Angeles, where Senator Frank F. Merriam was nominated for lieutenant governor.

Doubt that these three special elections will be held is expressed by Charles W .Cleary, former assemblyman who aided in drafting the present reapportionment law. There is nothing to prevent other incumbent senators from running for the vacant posts, he says, and instead of having three elections, nine might result.

In Senator Merriam's case, special elections might follow in Ventura (33rd district), Monterey and San Benito (25th district), Contra Costa (17th district) El Dorado, Amador and Alpine (9th district). Also in the 16th assembly district of El Dorado, Amador, Calaveras, Alpine, Tuolumne, Mono and Inyo. In the case of Senator Breed special elections might follow in Solano (15th district), Trinity and Shasta (5th district); and in the case of Feilom in San Mateo (21st district) and San Mateo (19th district.)

In view of this situation, legislative authorities are virtually agreed that special elections might further complicate the situation.

Committees Named For Flower Show

WOODSIDE

Herman Wobber, manager of Paramount Pictures, gave a dinner party to the members of Paramount executive staff a this home here on Sunday last.

James V. Neuman, usually the most successful of our local nimrods, has gone to Trinity county for a couple of weeks shooting and fishing.

The football team of the Woodside school defeated their rivals from Portola school last Friday by a score of 60 to 42. Coach Julian O'Neill of the local team has surely taught his charges to score even of they are a little weak on defense.

Miss Ruth Jaynes, the new head of the Girl Scout organization for the Sequoia district, was a visitor, with Mrs. George Givens, at the Woodside school on Tuesday. Miss Jaynes is to take the place of Miss Alice Philipson.

Joseph Limacher was tendered a surprise party last week by a large number of his friends on the west side of the ridge.

Miss Frances Hubeli was painfully burned on Saturday morning, when her dress caught fire from the kitchen stove. Only the quick action in rolling on the floor to smother the flames saved her from more serious injury. Dr. Gregory is attending her.

Mrs. Schroder, on leaving Woodside for Redwood City last Friday was given a farewell party by her neighbors in the Glens who took the occasion to present her with various dining room articles as a token of their affection.

The first of a series of six card parties to be given during the winter by the Parent-Teacher Association,will be held on Friday night, September 26. Mr. and Mrs .Elzear Bonafant will be the hosts on this occasion.

A. J. Zaepffel and family paid a visit on Sunday to our former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Davis now living at Hayward, where Mr. Davis has a service station and auto camp.

SHULLSBURG, Wis (UP)—Joseph Magee, White Oak farmer, is threshing the grain of his community for the fortieth consecutive season this year. In addition to operating a large farm and threshing, Magee finds time to prospect for lead and zinc in the winter.

MEDFORD, Wis. (UP)—Several apple trees on the farm of Walter Weihrouch, Cleveland township, are in blossom and have all the fragrance of the orchard in spring time. The buds on the trees were nipped by the frost arly last spring.

Hi School Notes

With the object of raising money for the scholarship fund the Sequoia Alumni association will give a dance in the girls' gym September 20.

El Thomas, general chairman of the committee, urges all old timers to come. The other members of the committee are Arthur Lampkin, '28; Truman Letts, '27; Kenneth Barteaux, '28; Myrtie Tripp, '28; Evelyn McArthur, '29; and Carl Britschgi, '30. Otis M. Carrington and James D. Hedge will assist in the preparations for the dance.

Screams, a gorilla, an Irish comedienne, a negro porter, and mystery on a speeding Pullman are to be exciting points in "The Rear Car," a play which is to be presented Oct. 3, in the Sequoia Union high school auditorium by the Sequoia Players.

Tickets are on sale September 22, at Ryan's Drug Store and the local school publications room for 50c.

Claude A. Van Patten, who is well known for his work on "The Romantic Young Lady," the senior play of last year, is coaching the play.

The important characters are Howard Gibbs as John Blake, hero; Genevieve Cunningham, Ruth Carlson, heroine; Joe Judge, Sheridan Scott, "nut" detective; Eleanor Woodcock, Norah O'Neil, comedienne and William Ambrose, Titus Brown, negro porters.

An actual Pullman will be constructed on the stage by members of the stage crew under the supervision of Mr. J. Edwin Spence, instructor of stage-craft. Members of the crew are Al Langbehn, manager; Royal Cchroeder, David German, Fred Becker, William Lewis, and Gilbert Davis.

Alumni Dance Planned Here

A benefit dance for the student scholarship fund of Sequoia Union high school is planned Saturday evening in the girls' gymnasium under the auspices of the Sequoia Alumni Association.

Among those sponsoring the event which will be the annual fall informal of the alumni group, are Walter T. Kellogg, president of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Kellogg; Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hedge, Mr. and Mrs. Otis M. Carrington, Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Cloud, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Argo, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Bogie.

Invitations have been extended to all Sequoia graduates and students. Members of the classes of '98 and '99 are co-operating with more recent groups in promoting the affair, for which an alumni orchestra has been secured.

Among those arranging the fall informal are El Thomas, '24, president; Alfred Robertson, '22; Albert Davies, '23; Truman R. Letts, '27, past presidents; Miss Evelyn McArthur, '28, secretary-treasurer; Carl Britschgi, '30, vice-president; Kenneth Barteaux, '28, Arthur Lampkin, '28, and Charles and Robert Clancy, both of the class of 1930.

French Courses Offered at J. C.

The Extension Division of the University of California announces the opening of two courses in San Mateo. A course in elementary French, planned for beginners and students wishing to review, was begun at 7:00 p. m. on Monday, September 15, under the instruction of Miss Dorothy Herrington of San Mateo Junior College.

No pre-requisite is necessary. Five units of University credit will be given for the course.

Public Speaking is the second course offered. This class is planned to meet the every day needs of the man or woman in business. It covers voice work, pronunciation and vocabulary drill and the organization and presentation of speeches. Frequent speaking before an audience gives the student confidence. This course is a repetition of the one offered so successfully last spring. It is again under the instruction of Ada R. Beveridge. The first meeting will be on Tuesday, September 16 at 7:15 p. m Both classes will be held at the San Mateo Public Library.

SAVES DIME AND IS RICHER BY $80

GALT, Ont., Sept 11 (UP)—Instead of investing a dime for a cheap hammer, Thomas Hubbard used an old piece of gas pipe. As a result of his thrift Hubbard was richer by $80 today.

Happening to look inside the pipe a few days ago, Hubbard noticed an obstruction. He pushed it out, and found that the pipe had been clogged by eight $10 bills of the 1907 issue.

Duck Hunters Cautioned On State Limits

Federal Officers To Enforce Federal Limits In All Cases

With the aproach of the duck season, the paramount question that is in the mind of every hunter is—what is the duck limit?

Recently Washington authorities amended the federal law to provide that a hunter could kill 15 ducks per day, but he might have in possession 30 ducks at one time. The state law allows 25 ducks per day or 50 per week. The state law could not be changed for the coming season.

In order that the duck hunters in California might know where they stand, at a recent meeting of the Fish and Game Commission, held in Los Angeles, it was agreed that the state game wardens will enforce the existing state law and the federal law will be enforced by the federal game protectors. The same policy will be followed in regard to the goose limit which by the terms of the federal regulations, provides that the limit shall be reduced from 8 to 4 birds per day, with 8 birds being the possession limit.

This attitude on the part of the Division of Fish and Game is in accordance with other state enforcement officers in their relation to other statutes.

It is possible in the patrol of the state wardens many violations of the federal statutes will be called to their attention. In such cases, it will be the policy of the Fish and Game Commission to co-operate with the federal government and any information that may be in the files of the commission will be available for the use of the federal authorities.

Although there is considerable difference of opinion as to whether it was necesary to have reduced bag limit, it should be remembered that the hunters have increased and that the breeding ground has decreased and that steps must be taken to give addition protection if duck shooting is to continue.

Oak Gridders Will Battle Nine J. C.s in Season

MENLO PARK, Sept. 18—Menlo Junior College's football team, runner-up in the Northern California Junior College Conference campaign last season, will clash with nine opponents throughout this state and will climax its travels in quest of laurels with an inter-sectional contest at Ogden, Utah, against Weber College on Thanksgiving Day. Four conference skirmishes are on the Oak schedule.

Coach Dud DeGroot and his assistants—Russ Sweet, former Montana University and Olympic Club grid and track flash; Herb Fleishhacker, Stanford's giant star of the last three seasons, and Jay Tod, Menlo's captain and all-conference end last year——have been fortunate in the dealing of this year's deck of high school stars, but they are clouding their possible luck behind a veil of pessimism in view of the fact that nearly every other member of the conference likewise has several aces in the hole.

San Mateo Junior College looms as Menlo's most formidable opponent this fall, although Sacramento Jaysee is offering threats of eating up its schedule without a loss. The Oaks do not play the Capitol City eleven this year, but will tangle with the Bearcats November 14 in Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, in a contest which will mark the advent of junior college football in the bay region metropolitan area.

Led by Capt. Al Norgard, all-conference tackle last year, only a few veterans returned to the Oak fold. Jerry Whitaker, center; Mark Orr, guard; Carl Sandholdt, guard and Seldon ("Sargeant") Willis, guard, are the returning vetrans who, with Captain Norgard, will attempt to carry on where the Oaks left off in 1929. Several notables of various California high schools are seeking positions, but no definite team will be picked until Coach DeGroot deems it necessary.

Santa Clara University's freshmen eleven, composed of outstanding prep stars of the San Francisco Bay district, will be Menlo's first opponent in a Friday afternoon game here September 26.

Sequoia To Meet Salinas Varsity

With a week of practice behind them since their defeat at the hands of the Galileo Lions, Admission Day, the Sequoia high varsity football team will clash with the Salinas high varsity on the Salinas field tomorrow.

The Cherokee gridders will leave for the Cowboy's town tomorrow with high hopes of trimming the light, fast Cowboy varsity, which they accomplished last year in their annual game, the score being 15-6 in the Indians' favor.

With the majority of the varsity recovered from injuries incurred in the practice tilt with Galileo, Coaches Ray Dimick and Leonard Casanova, plan to start the same lineup that opened the Admission Day contest.

Ed Cullen, quarterback, Al Cleland, halfback, "Chuck" DeLacy, fullback, and either Larry Heiner or Roy McQuilkin at the other halfback post, will probably compose the starting Indian backfield. In the line, Bevilockoway and LeRoy, a pair of veteran ends; Goldthwaite and Stubbs, at tackle; Rhoda and Lawler, guards; and either Eaton, George Rhoda, or Bob Archibald, at center, will probably make up the forward wall assignments for the Salinas game.

Cullen's passing to Cleland, was the bright light in the Galileo game. Successful passing by this pair gained 20 yards at one crack and 15 on another attempt. Pete Lawler, Frank Goldthwaite, and Roy McQuilkin are all possible punters who have looked good in practices.

Coach Tom Carleton and his 130-pound football team wil accompany the varsity to Salinas, where they will face the Salinas lightweights in a preliminary game to the varsity encounter in the afternoon.

The 130's have rounded into form quickly this year with a large turnout of good material composed of a number of veterans, which Carleton believes surpasses last years lightweight outfit, the P. A. L. champs.

PAINSVILLE, O. (UP)—Fred Van Valkenburg was working on his car when a tire blew out. The rim blew off the wheel at the same time and struck Van Valkenburg's leg, breaking it.

Injury Holds One From M. P. J. C. Team

MENLO PARK, Sept 18—Despite at heavy practice schedule featured two workouts daily until school opened, Menlo Junior College's football team has come thus far with only one casualty—an injured shoulder which is keeping Dick Chilcott, tackle registered from Sequoia Union High school of Redwood City, from practice. Two ligaments were broken. Chilcott is expected to don the moleskins again soon.

LITTLE MISUNDERSTANDING

KALISPELL, Mont. (UP)—Kilowatt, a Flathead Indian, found a red traffic violation ticket tied to the steering wheel of his automobile Failing to understand he was to report at police headquarters and believing his machine had been selectd to receive first prize as the most excellent automobile in Kalispell, Kilowatt returned to his reservation and announced himself the tribe's most distinguished resident.

The four Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers" to be shown at the Sequoia Theatre, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 23, 24 and 25.

British Ring Fans Hold High Regard for Strib

LONDON, Sept. 18 (UP)—During Young Stribling's last stay in England, a sojourn which ended with his slashing two-round knockout of Phil Scott, the Georgian fighter told the British a few things about prize fighting, glove throwing and boxing—and then went out and practiced what he preached.

While all the talk goes the rounds of the boxing world about who will attempt to jolt and par the title away from Schmeling, British fans feel Stribling should hold number one in the forming queue.

A great display against Carnera last winter at Albert Hall followed by a victory in Paris over the big Italian, has given Stribling's stock a big boost. His rife blows to von Porat's chin for a one-round victory, followed by the removal from the ring of Shufflin' Scott, has put him right with the British. They trow the Miami fight with Sharkey out of the reckoning.

During a discussion about fighting William L. went straight to the point about differences of the glove game in the United States and Gseat Britain.

Said Stribling: "Boxing fans in America think their time and money thrown away if they get no action. There is a craze for slugging."

Probably the same craze demands home-run hitting, or forward passes and touchdowns in football.

"In England boxing it a science," continued Stribling. "Men are never trained to develop a 'killer spirit,' or to stand toe to toe and slug. Finishing a man off is seldom done, even when the opportunity presents itself.

"When a novice in England starts his career his trainer tells him he must stand this way, feet apart just so much, left hand just there, right arm forward for guard . . . 'now lead with your left — never with your right.'

"When the American novice goes into the ring his trainer says: 'See that guy? Go out and slug him! Knock him out.'"

Speaking about the most successful type of fighting for a craftsman of the ring, Stribling said. "The best method for a man in the ring today is a combination of the American essential—call it slugging—with the essence of English boxing science. Corbett, though an American, was typically English, and his style is considered in America as the ideal of its type.

"By contrast was Jack Dempsey, a man of no science, but a magnificent slugger. Each succeeded because he was of exceptional ability."

Football Again

Football's in the air. A week from tomorrow the grand opening of the 1930 season will take place with more than 500 teams from coast to coast swinging into action.

It will be interesting to follow the progress of the leading elevens of 1929 in their opening games. Notre Dame was generally recognized as the best team last season, although Purdue, Texas Christian and Tulane were unbeaten.

The 1929 rating of the leading elevens made by Dr. Frank Dickinson of the University of Illinois follows:

1—Notre Dame	52.00
2—Purdue	23.60
3—Pittsburgh	22.00
4—California	20.00
5—Illinois	18.70
6—So. California	17.75
7—Nebraska	16.82
8—Texas Christian	16.51
9—So. Methodist	16.31
10—Tulane	16.27
11—Pennsylvania	15.00

These ratings were based upon the strength of the teams and opponents rather than scores,

The biggest flaw in Dr. Dickinson's standing is the absence of Stanford which beat California, ranked fourth 21.6 and thamped the Army, mhich held Notre Dame to a 7-0 score under an avalanche of touchdowns.

Odds and Ends

Jap Hart from Dothan, Ala., home of Johnny Mack Brown, former Alabama star and now a cinema player, promises to do great things in the Georgia Tech backfield. . . The Army under Head Coach Ralph Sasse will use the Stanford system this year. . . Hugh Whatley, fleet Tulane back, is boomed as a successor to Bill Banker, last year's star of the Green Wave. . . Six men who never played football before thef came to college will be one the U. of Maryland team this season. . . The first two unbeaten teams of 1929 to meet will be Notre Dame and Southern Methodist at South Bend October 4. . . Southern Methodist played four ties last year but was undefeated. . . . The U. of South Carolina scrimmages without shoulder pads to toughen up the players. . . Howard Sprauge, 200-pound brother of Bud Sprauge, former Army captain, will play in the backfield on the U. of Texas eleven this year. . . . Jim Tanguay, New York U. back, is expected to be the ball-carrying ace of the Violets this season. . . N. Y. U. probably will start the season with a sophomore backfield. . . . Columbia, under its new coach, Lou Little, will feature deception in its attack.

Iron Moulder Foreign Minister Of England Has 67th Birthday

By ARTHUR F. DEGREVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 15 (UP)—Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, who began life an an iron moulder and became one of Labor Party's shrewdest leaders, celebrated his 67th birthday today.

The cares of state affairs have fallen heavily upon the broad shoulders of "Uncle Arthur" as he is popularly known to laborites, during the past year. He recently was ordered to the country by his physician for a long rest.

Since the first of the year, life for Henderson has been a series of conferences, beginning with arrival of leading statesmen of five nations to discuss limitations of naval armaments.

Throughout the trying days of the naval parley with France and Italy deadlocked over questions of parity and tonnages. Henderson stood staunchly at the side of his friend and chief Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald and contributed much toward averting a complete collapse of negotiations.

He divided his time during this impasse between the naval conference and the Egyptian conference which failed and after a brief respite plunged into the Palestine conference which also failed.

Even the Conservative and Liberal press agreed that failure of the latter conference was preferred to surrendering concessions demanded as to price of agreement, and Henderson's policy was not attacked.

Henderson is regarded as one of the most cautious members of the Labor Party.

"I began life as an iron-moulder," he said in one of his speeches. "Now my business is to mould public opinion."

This, friends say, typifies his attitude toward politics. He does not act hastily and rarely reverses his decision. He is reluctant to admit defeat in negotations, yet will not make great concessions to assure victory.

Henderson has complete confidence of the labor party which owes to him many of its successes. The foreign secretary has worked tirelessly to maintain harmony in party ranks.

He is considered comfortably wealthy and lives in an expensive flat. After leaving school his parents had decided he should be a butcher but Henderson chose to learn the iron-moulding trade, from which he sprung to success. He still is a member and formerly was an official of the Iron-Moulders' society.

READING BY MR. CLAUDE VAN PATTEN

Mr. Claude van Patten read many of the lines in "The Play is the Thing" by Franz Molnar, before a highly appreciative group at the Little Theatre last evening. This play is the vehicle in which Guy Bates Post has been starring the past year and has been keenly enjoyed for its clever lines.

Mr. van Patten is giving a series of readings and discussions, held each Wednesday evening at Sequoia high school in the Little Theatre. The public is cordially invited to attend.

COFIORI-BETTENCOURT WEDDING SATURDAY

Miss Eris L. Cofiori of this city will become the bride of Mr. Joseph A. Bettencourt of Burlingame at a pretty wedding to be solemnized at Mt. Carmel Catholic Church next Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Miss Cofiori will be attended by her sister, Miss Helen Cofiori, and Mr. Bettencourt will have his brother as his best man. Rev. Father Flannigan will officiate. Following the ceremony there will be a reception and wedding dinner at the home of the bride on El Camino Real.

Miss Cofiori is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cofiori and attended the Sequoia Union high school, where she was prominent in girls' athletics. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Bettencourt, Sr., pioneer residents of Half Moon Bay. He is in the sheet and metal business in Burlingame. The young couple will make their home in that city.

MISS SHIELDS BRIDE OF CLARENCE O'NEIL

Mt. Carmel Catholic church was the scene of a very beautiful wedding Wednesday evening when Miss Madeline Shields of this city became the bride of Mr. Clarence J. O'Neil of San Mateo.

The Reverend Father Cavanagh read the impressive marriage ritual before the alter decorated with palms, ferns and white chrysanthemums. Candelabro of lighted candles enhanced the beauty of the scene.

The bride entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, her brother, Dr. Clement Shields giving her in marriage.

Her wedding gown was of white organdy made en train and with long tight sleeves. It was worn by her aunt, Mrs. Mary Hull Shields, in the same church thirty years ago.

Her veil of white tulle was made in tiers and was fastened to a Juliette cap with orange blossoms on the side, and gardenias across the back.

Miss Shields carried a Dolly Varden boquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Clement Shields wore a blue taffeta gown and carried a similar boquet, but of pink flowers surrounded by a frill of pink tulle, and wore a bandeau of pink tulle on her hair.

During the ceremony, Mr. Harold Freeman of San Francisco sang Shubert's "Ave Maria," accompanied on the organ by Miss Frances Flynn, who also played the wedding march. Mendelsohn's march was the recessional.

Mr. Fred O'Neil of San Mateo was his brother's best man.

After the ceremony there was a reception at the Shield's home on Grand street for the relatives and a few close friends. The rooms were artistically decorated with similax ferns and autumn leaves, Tall rose colored candles and pink roses were used to decorate the bride's table which was set with a lace cloth over pink.

The young couple departed later in the evening for Del Monti, and will continue their trip to the Grand Canyon. They will be away for three weeks and on their return will make their home in Hayward Park, San Mateo.

Mrs. O'Neil is a daughter of Mrs. Sarah Shields and the late Mr. John Shields. She is a graduate of Sequoia Union high school, the Notre Dame Academy, and the St. Frances Hospital school of Nursing in San Francisco. She had a wide circle of friends in this city where she has always been a very popular girl. Mr. O'Neil is the son of Mrs. Cecelia O'Neil of San Mateo and is in business in that city.

ALUMNI DANCE NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

Alumni and students of Sequoia Union high school are planning an All-Sequoia reunion tomorrow evening on the occasion of the annual fall informal dance to be given in the girls' gymnasium by the Sequoia Alumni Association for the benefit of the student scholarship fund.

Classes from 1898 to 1930 have been invited to attend the event, which is also attracting the attention of Sequoia students. An alumni orchestra will furnish music, and refreshments will be provided. Bids are 50 cents for men and 25 cents for women.

Sponsoring the affair are Messrs. and Mesdames Walter T. Kellogg, Otis M. Carrington, James D. Hedge, A. C. Argo, A. S. Kalenborn and Donald L. Bogie. Plans for the fall informal are being arranged by a committee under El Thomas '24, president of the alumni group.

RUBY IWWERKS OF BERNARD CARSILLO

Miss Ruby Iwwarks of this city and Mr. Bernard Carsillo of San Francisco were married at a simple wedding Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Methodist church, with the Reverend J. R. Rudkin tying the nuptual knot.

The bride wore a gown of brown crepe and carried a boquet of yellow roses. Her father, Mr. W. R. Iwwerks gave his daughter in marriage. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Marian Iwwerks, who wore a bottle green gown, trimmed with cream lace.

Mr. Merrill Iwwerks atended the groom as best man.

After the ceremony, there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Iwwerks on Jackson street for the relatives and a few close friends.

The young couple will be at home after Monday at their home in San Francisco where Mr. Carsillo is in business.

Mrs. Carsillo was associated with the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. in San Francisco for the past three years.

MRS. JULIUS SMITH LUNCHEON HOSTESS

Mrs. Julius Smith was hostess last week to a coterie of ladies, taking her guests to the Fox Shoppe for luncheon. Later they repaired to the Smith home on Grand street and played bridge during the afternoon. Honors were made by Mrs. H. Hinchman and Mrs. Albert Solley.

The guests were Mrs. Frank Mueller, Mrs. Harry Goff, Mrs. Herman Wertsch, Mrs. Albert Solley and Mrs. Henry Giambruno all of San Francisco, Mrs. Calvin Grandi and Mrs. H. M. Hinchman of Redwood City.

WILL MOULTHROPS GIVE BRIDGE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Moulthrop entertained at their home on Oak Knoll Drive last week. Bridge was the diversion of the evening honors for high scores being awarded Mr. Calvin S. Grandi and Mrs. David Salsbury. Mrs. Calvin Grandi and Mr. Frank Mueller received the consolations.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mueller of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barclay of Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. David Salsbury and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin S. Grandi.

DR. WOODHAMS TO TALK ON TRAVELS

Dr. Roy Woodhams, who is visiting here from the Congo of Africa, where he is engaged in missionary work, will deliver a talk at the Congregational Church on Sunday evening at 6:30. The address will be illustrated by slides showing scenes of Africa taken by Dr. Woodhams. The meeting is to be under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. All friends of the church are invited.
